Application for UIM Scholarship

This scholarship is intended to provide unique opportunities and support for minoritized medical students who wish to complete a month-long sub-internship in Emergency Medicine at UCSF Fresno.

To be eligible for this scholarship, you must be entering your final year of medical school (graduating 2022) and planning to pursue a career in Emergency Medicine. You must meet all course pre-requisites as outlined on our website. You must identify as part of a group underrepresented in medicine. We are open to considering many forms of underrepresentation in medicine, including LGBTQ+ persons as well as, in the AAMC's words, "those racial and ethnic populations that are underrepresented in the medical profession relative to their numbers in the general population."

For details about the scholarship and our course, Emergency Medicine 140.30, please visit our website: <https://www.fresno.ucsf.edu/emergency-medicine-residency/medical-students/>

To submit your application, please email the following to ndennie@fresno.ucsf.edu:

- this form, completed
- current CV
- medical school transcript
- USMLE score report

We do not have USMLE score cut-offs or take scores into considering who should receive this scholarship, but all students must have passed Step 1 prior to the first day of their rotation. In order to rotate at UCSF Fresno, you will later need to submit administrative materials via VSLO, but you do not have to do so prior to submitting this application.

Applications are due by midnight PST on Feb 28, 2021. We will send scholarship offers on or about March 12, 2021.
