

APPLICATIONS ARE DUE JUNE 10TH

The ARA Program is offered to Pre-Medical Students in partnership with California State University, Fresno's Biology Department. Receive credit while learning about clinical research through the following course: NSCI 110I.

Academic Research Associate Program

The ARA Program is NOW accepting applications for academic year 2022-2023!

This course requires you to complete at least 80 hours (6 hours a week) that will include: research, educational sessions, and other activities. The course has a one-year minimum commitment. By your participation in the ARA program past the first semester, you will have the opportunity to write your own research study that will be implemented in the emergency department.

Applications are accepted online only. Click HERE to apply!

The UCSF logo is displayed in white text on a dark blue background.

Application Eligibility

The ARA Program is offered to Pre-Medical Students in sophomore and above standing. The course can be taken for 2-4 semesters. This program allows you to observe many aspects of medicine and the health care industry in the emergency department at Community Regional Medical Center.

Program Benefits

- An in-depth look into current emergency medicine research
- Learn how the Institutional Review Board operates and the importance of clinical research.
- Hospital volunteer hours
- Participate in a ride along shift in collaboration with American Ambulance.

For more information visit our website page: <https://www.fresno.ucsf.edu/emresearch/ara/>

If you have any additional comments or concerns, feel free to email Jannet Castaneda at Jannet.CastanedaSanchez@ucsf.edu